VINCENZO LAGIOIA, Mascolinità e violenza studentesca. Bilancio storiografico e casi italiani (secc. XVI-XVII)

Acts of student violence have been recorded since the Middle Ages and the Early Modern Era.

The new international historiography devoted many pages to this theme especially to indiscipline in university life. At the same time disorders and relaxed practices in the young environment have been studied through the gender categories. This essay aims to link these two historiography traditions presenting some case studies from 17th century unknown documents by Bologna and Pisa.
